

Butcher / Machine Operator (m/f/d)

You have completed an apprenticeship in butchery or food technology and feel confident working with production machinery. Your experience in food production, your technical understanding and your attention to hygiene and quality make you a valuable candidate for this role. In raw ham production, you'll operate machinery with precision, prepare the raw materials and ensure the process runs smoothly across shifts. Apply now and demonstrate your expertise in a field where quality is immediately apparent and modern production runs according to a clear structure.
