

Service Technician (full-time) (Aniviva Stallservices, 6143 Ohmstal)

Aniviva in Ohmstal/LU is part of the Poultry organisational unit and develops innovative solutions for Swiss poultry production. Using state-of-the-art climate control, automation and production technology, we ensure the reliable and efficient operation of poultry houses. As a service technician, you will be the key technical point of contact: you will install, maintain and optimise our systems, troubleshoot faults and support our customers directly on site. In this way, you will play an active role in ensuring that modern, animal-friendly Production works in practice. If you love technology, enjoy taking on responsibility and are looking for a practical role that makes a difference, then Aniviva is the right fit for you.
