Your tasks

- You're choosing a career with a future in an extremely varied sector.

- In this profession, you'll choose a specialism that suits you best:
- In the "Meat Production" specialism, you'll learn everything about animal husbandry and the proper methods of slaughtering, disassembly and boning.
- If you choose the 'Meat Production' specialism with a 'Poultry' focus, you'll learn about meat production and the processing of poultry. You'll process, pack and label the products for the end consumer. Ensuring Sustainability and compliance with quality and hygiene standards are also key learning objectives.
- The "commercial meat processing" specialisation focuses on production of high-quality food products from meat and other raw materials.
- In "Meat Refining", your creativity is put to the test. You can demonstrate this, for example, with delicatessen products, cold platters and ready meals.
- The manufacture of ready-to-sell products and the dynamic manufacturing process in a large-scale industrial setting round off your apprenticeship.
