

Staff member at a livestock farm in Herbligen near Thun (60%)

Our parent stock farms are a key component of Bell Schweiz AG's integrated poultry production. At the parent stock farm in Herbligen near Thun, you will play a central role in modern poultry production. Under the guidance of the farm manager, you will play an active part in all aspects of the operation – from the daily care of the breeding stock to the collection of hatching eggs. You will monitor and report on animal health in accordance with the guidelines, ensure the smooth operation of the technical equipment and carefully record all relevant production data. In this way, you will make a direct contribution to modern, safe and sustainable food production and work in a responsible environment with clear quality standards.
