Project Manager (full-time) (Aniviva Stallservices, 6143 Ohmstal)

Aniviva in Ohmstal, Lucerne, is part of the Poultry organisational unit and develops innovative solutions for Swiss poultry production. Using state-of-the-art climate control, automation and production technology, we ensure the reliable and efficient operation of poultry houses. In this role, you will manage projects for new BTS poultry houses throughout Switzerland, from requirements analysis through to commissioning. You will combine customer consultancy and project coordination with your interest in agriculture, construction and poultry house technology. Together, we will develop practical, sustainable and animal-friendly solutions. Would you like to play an active role in shaping the future of Swiss poultry production?
